

GORD

Adult Literacy: Woodstock

Multi-Service Centre - 2011

When Gord became involved in the program, in January of 2010, he knew the letters of the alphabet and could read some two and three letter words. He had difficulty interpreting signs in the community and was struggling to support his family.

Today, after meeting with his tutor regularly for 1 ½ years, Gord is reading at a much higher level. He can now read and understand short stories, leave short notes for his wife, and fill in basic forms at his current job. Furthermore, Gord has also studied for and received his driver's license, and has updated his résumé in order to search for full time work.

Besides the goals noted above, Gord reports that he feels much more confident in his ability to apply his reading and writing skills in his everyday life.
